Jennifer Lohman, CFP®, is the Pro Bono Director for the FPA of Silicon Valley. A core part of the mission of our chapter is to promote financial literacy in our community. As Board Director, she works with the Pro Bono committee to plan and participate in programs that promote financial literacy and/or provide pro bono one-on-one financial planning to the public. Current programs include Financial Planning Days and Seminars, often held at local libraries.

“Our active pro-bono committee is the heart of the activity that helps bring that part of our mission to life. I have been a member of the pro-bono planning committee for more than nine years and have served as its Board co-chair for the past four years. During this time I have been consistently impressed by the energy, enthusiasm and deep commitment that each of our members brings to this vitally important work.

When I joined the FPA in 2013 I was immediately drawn to pro-bono financial planning. I joined the Silicon Valley FPA Pro Bono committee, participating in “Planners in the Library” events and offering free financial literacy workshops. These experiences have been extremely rewarding and have kept me coming back for more. I joined the Board of the Silicon Valley FPA in 2021 and proudly serve as the Chair of the Pro-Bono committee.

It is always with great pride and pleasure that I am able to submit my regular reports to the Board, highlighting all of the great work and deep commitment that the pro-bono committee brings to the Silicon Valley community.”

Jennifer Lommen, CFP® is the owner of Wildflower Financial in Santa Cruz, CA.
